WANTED! Practice Pointers

Assist fellow nurse practitioners by sharing your clinical tips.

If you have a similarly practical tip (no longer than four paragraphs), send it to Lorna Sapp Murray, Associate Editor, The Nurse Practitioner, 1111 Bethlehem Pike, P.O. Box 908, Springhouse, PA 19477-0908; E-mail: lorna.murray@springnet.com.

If we publish your tip, you will receive a check for $25.

We look forward to receiving your practice tip!

For Example:

Prescription Printout

Many of my patients go to more than one health care provider and thus take several medications. But often they have trouble giving me a complete and correct prescription history. In this case, I ask my patient to bring a copy of the pharmacist's computer printout (for example, "patient profile") for the past several months to his or her next appointment. It is often a real eye opener to see the list of medications the patient is taking or has been prescribed in the past several months. This can be an excellent teaching tool as well as a way to find potential drug cross-reactivity and compliance problems.
